

Alfio Gliozzo: a success story in international research

April 11, 2017

On February 20, 2017, during the meeting for the presentation of the PhD program, the researcher from Sicily, FBK doctorate program alumnus, told us about his adventure in the world of artificial intelligence.

“As the ancient Greek have taught us, philosophy thrives in times of abundance. It does not come from war” says Alfio Gliozzo, a scientist who, also thanks to his experience at Fondazione Bruno Kessler in Trento, now holds a top position at IBM T.J. Watson Research Center in New York, USA.

Listen to the interview that, for your convenience, we split up by topics:

> HOW I BECAME A SCIENTIST

> NEW JOB OPPORTUNITIES IN THE AI AND COMPUTER SCIENCE ERA ?

> MY PHD CAREER

Interview done in February 2017 by M. Lucianer (FBK Press office)
