Mobility story: Claudio Ferlan

December 23, 2016

I meant to ask him at what point in his personal and professional life he decided to leave, for what reason, and with what destination, what his advice is to anyone who is considering making a decision like this now, what he worked on, what difficulties he encountered, what results he obtained, and if he could indicate new scenarios opened by the experience of travel and study abroad.

Listening to him was so enjoyable that I quickly put aside the draft I was planning to use as my map to explore other parts of his experience. In the videos below, he takes us with him, sifting among memo him via Twitter and watch the VIDEOS!
