Panel on “Commonfare” in Trentino

April 13, 2017

A technology platform useful for the exchange of information to anyone in a state of economic and job insecurity. It is called Commonfare.net and is being developed under the European PIE News project, in which the CREATE-NET Research Center of Fondazione Bruno Kessler (Trento) participates.

The platform will be described during a round table on Friday, April 21 at 2 pm at Impact Hub Trentino (via Roberto da Sanseverino, 95, Trento). During the meeting, the concepts of commonfare will be presented and possible interactions with the local Trentino communities will be discussed.

“The public is expected and desirable, and it will certainly have the chance to interact with the speakers and make the discussion more interesting,” says Francesco Botto (FBK CREATE-NET), who with Federico Zappini (Impact Hub Trentino) will introduce the # CommonFareTrentino event.

“The proposed topics,” Botto continues, “are clearly new and innovative, and are in touch with the local area thus helping to define the social networks and agreements between organizations and institutions underlying the commonfare.net platform developed with the PIE News European project of which CREATE-NET is a partner with the dual role of technical coordinator and evaluator. ”

The panel will be made up by: Andrea Fumagalli (University of Pavia / BIN Italy), Cristina Morini (BIN Italy), Chiara Bassetti (University of Trento), Fabio Antonelli (FBK CREATE-NET), Marco Sachy (Dyne.org), Alessandro Olivi (Vice-President of the Autonomous Province of Trento), Flaviano Zandonai (EURICSE and Iris Network) and Loris Vergolini (FBK-IRVAPP).
